Nursery and Kindergarten 1959-1961

For many of its students, Rowland Hall - St. Mark's is more than a school—it's a way of life. This life-style started early for some of the Class of 1973. That's Finnlandia playing house with a friend in Nursery School. Even then, Grant was "at the wheel" steering the way for his classmates. It's hard to recognize the pensive little boy with the short hair as David, but we can easily identify Emma and Becky in their plaid Kindergarten uniforms.

Although several came and then departed, the only member of the Class of 1973 to stick it out all the way through the Lower School was Emma Diamant. In 1967, however, David and Grant returned, and newcomers, Edward, Dee, Steve, Anne, and Ginger, joined them as classmates in the Seventh Grade.

Seventh Grade 1968

Several familiar faces in the Class of 1973 were added as the class moved through the Upper School grades. Looking at their pictures, we can see that some, like Kim and Harvey, look more serious than we've ever seen them, while some, like Cam, just look younger and others, like Marty and Frances haven't changed much at all. Mimi came to RHSM from Mexico in September of 1971, and Chuck joined us the following year.

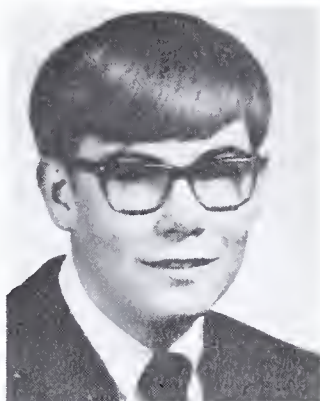

Now, as Seniors, we can recognize the role RHSM has played in our individual development. We can also look back on the unique contribution each of us has made to the life-style of Rowland Hall - St. Mark's School.

Because RHSM provides a way for students to fulfill requirements at their own rate, Becky Nibley and Debbie Weston will accompany the Seniors and become members of the graduating Class of 1973.

Becky, who came to RHSM in 1964, and Debbie, who joined her in 1968, have, through dedication to their studies, accomplished the unusual feat of completing graduation requirements while still in their Junior year.

Best wishes and congratulations to Becky and Debbie.

our friends and fellow students

Each class of Rowland Hall-St. Mark's has a character of its own which enhances the lifestyle of the school. From the lively, mischievous seventh graders through the witty, expressive Juniors, to the sometimes sophisticated Seniors, the composite character of the school is apparent.

Through their combined efforts the students form a unified student body and create an atmosphere of friendship which gives RHSM its unique quality as a school.

The various classes have distinct characteristics fostered through monthly class meetings and special class activities. The Juniors are no exception. Through trial and error, organization and chaos, they have conducted a successful dinner, several car washes, a smashing bazaar project and a lavish Junior Prom. Though other descriptions have been suggested, no one can argue that this is "a class with an abundance of energy." Through cooperation and initiative, they have achieved more privileges than any previous Junior Class.

The sophomore class is a group of true individuals with different ideas and ways of doing things. But, in spite of their differences, they have a special kind of unity. Each sophomore contributes something of his own to the school; together the class is really something else!

Chapel had a late start this year, but a student Chapel committee met with Bishop Charles and arranged to have a service once a week. Since Father Ellingson's arrival, Lower School services and a Communion service have been added. Crucifers, Anne Worthington and Marci Hackett; Acolytes, Steve Lawry, Justin Blackmore, Finnlandia Gurholt, Harvey King, Knox Fitzpatrick, and Mike Dunn; and Choir members, Dee Amoss, John Amoss, Leslie Stringham, Mary Fairchild, Carol Burgess, Bobby Young, Carolyn Fredricks, Kerry Hawkes, Mike Dunn, Quentin Smelzer III, Jim Ure, Doug Arnold, Harvey King, Kris Hammond, and Anne Chavré, have all contributed their time and effort to the Chapel program.

Father Ellingson

student government

In its second year in committee format, Rowland Hall - St. Mark's student government has allowed students to have an active part in the function of the school. In this structure, there is a representative from each class on each committee: Education, Finance, Social, and Human Relations. This provides a means of communication between the administration, faculty and students and also allows students to work together for common causes. These committees have worked to obtain new uniform regulations, an improved curriculum, revised procedures for the recording of permanent grades, time for enjoyable activities, additional student privileges, assembly speakers, and a weekly Forum program.

BOARDING department

The boarding department at Rowland Hall - St. Mark's has students from California, Colorado, New Mexico, Idaho, Utah, Canada, Mexico, and Saudi Arabia. These boys and girls range in age from thirteen to eighteen and their interests range from motorcycle racing to sewing.

This year the boarders have gone to plays, the ballet, and the symphony; taken lessons in karate, judo, ballet, and instrumental music; and have gone on trips to Zion and the Kier cabin in the Uintahs.

The boarding department routine is structured during the school week, but the individual can work within this structure. Study hall hours can be adjusted for driver's education or judo lessons. Sleeping during study hall is frowned upon, but a precautionary splash of cold water before the dinner bell may help on to pass muster.

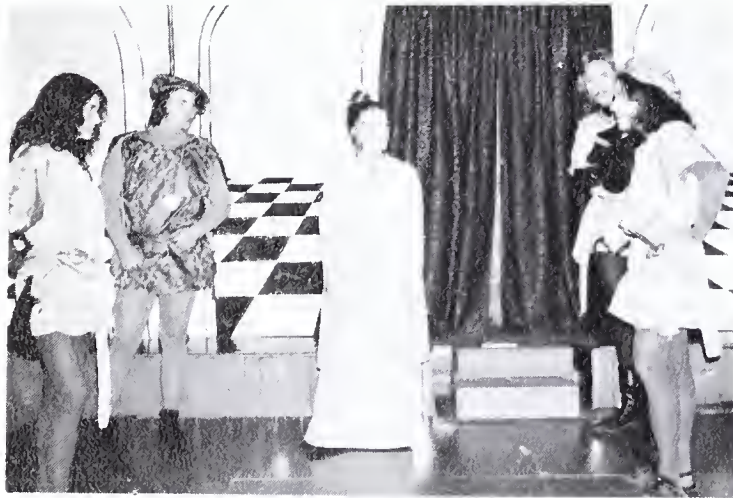

all school play

. . . .twelfth night

"All the world's a stage," and so was RHSM when a cast of twenty-one players and numerous crew members cooperated to present Shakespeare's Twelfth Night on December 7, 8, and 9. The production, under the direction of Mrs. Clark, featured an improvised prologue and live music. According to Ginger Wilson, student director, the play was truly a learning experience for all participants. OH, THOSE TIGHTS!
